The Ramstein Education Office hosted an education fair for all Department of Defense ID card holders and their families Jan. 31 at the Kaiserslautern Military Community Center on Ramstein.

This event is held annually to inspire people to get started on their education or to further pursue a degree. Sixteen different organizations from around the KMC area attended to inform the community about the educational opportunities available to them.

"These types of events are used to raise awareness. I think a lot of people would be surprised how many are not utilizing the tuition assistance that is available

New IDOC for KMC opens

86th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

The 569th U.S. Forces Police Squadron on Vogelweh Military Complex celebrated the opening of Kaiserslautern Military Community's new Integrated Defense Operations Center with a ribbon cutting ceremony at their new facility Feb. 1. The IDOC, a $1.2 million project, was established for the purpose of building a new alternate emergency operations center and emergency control center. The ECC combines the dispatch and control functions of fire protection, law enforcement and installation defense for the KMC.

"This move is significant for the community because it brings all our emergency capabilities together," said Senior Master Sgt. Steve Schoen, 569th U.S. Forces Police Squadron acting security forces manager. "It once was that when the fire department went out to a call, we didn't know if it was a routine response or if a patrol was needed. This lets us communicate directly with each other and cut back on the response time."

The renovations were broken up into two parts. Phase one included the relocation, renovation and new construction to the IDOC facility. Phase two is expected to begin this month and entails a renovation of the previous facility, which will be turned into flight operations and flightline security.

The now up-and-running facility combines the efforts of multiple agencies, which enhances communication and cuts down on emergency

United States Army Europe's top NCO expects all Soldiers to be fit, disciplined and well trained and expects leaders to enforce those standards.

That was the message of Command Sgt. Maj. David S. Davenport Sr., the USAREUR command sergeant major, during an interview immediately following his visit to the 21st Theater Sustainment Command as the guest speaker for the Sergeant Morales Club and Sergeant Audie Murphy Club induction ceremony Feb. 1.

Question: How important are clubs like Sergeant Audie Murphy and Sergeant Morales going to be in

Commentary

Hello USAREUR,

It is wonderful to be back in Europe! Ann and I sincerely appreciate the opportunity to once again join the tremendous team here at U.S. Army Europe.

I'm honored to be afforded the opportunity to serve you — the Soldiers, civilians, families and host nation supporters that shape this dedicated community, and I feel it necessary to thank you all for what you have done and continue to do every day.

USAREUR is in a time of transition. Our headquarters has a new home in Wiesbaden, we are in the process of deactivating two long-storied brigades, and we are reducing our garrison footprint across Europe. This transition makes us leaner, better organized, and more agile. In the end we will be better prepared to face the challenges of the future.

I'm here at an interesting time, as one of those challenges is at our doorstep today. As you all know, our nation as a whole is currently facing fiscal uncertainty and our Army is not immune to that. With this difficult time come tough decisions about how to navigate the road ahead and balance fiscal responsibility with the readiness of our force and the well-being of our families. I am committed to ensuring that our workforce stays informed and understands the measures taken and the reasons for them. As always, I encourage all of you to rely on your chain of command and command information channels for timely and accurate information as we navigate these uncertain times.

One thing is clear, regardless of resources or troop levels, no less will be asked of us. We have made impressive gains with our allies and partners over the last decade, but our challenge will be to maintain and build upon these gains in a postwar era of competing resources.

This means that as an organization we will need to focus on fundamentals and on imperatives like discipline, comprehensive fitness, leader development and teamwork. I expect leaders and Soldiers alike to follow these command imperatives that I have come to trust as a sound formula for developing units into a team of teams that is ready to accomplish any mission. You will soon be seeing AFN spots and other means of communication that reinforce these imperatives.

We must continue to remain focused on accomplishing all missions while always ensuring the resiliency of our families. I expect all leaders to assist me in promoting a positive command climate; instilling trust up and down the chain of command that reinforces and exemplifies our Army Values and the Warrior Ethos of our combat proven force. Together we will continue to make our overseas home and the USAREUR team better every day.

I consider it an honor and privilege to lead this historic team and look forward to seeing you all in your formations and communities around Europe. Strong Soldiers, Strong Teams!

- Lt. Gen. Don Campbell
U.S. Army Europe commanding general

86th VRS keeps responders rolling

by Airman 1st Class Tameara Lupfer-Hamilton
86th Vehicle Readiness Squadron

When you call an emergency number, such as 112 here in Germany, how would you feel if they told you to call back later due to first responder vehicles, such as police cars and ambulances, not being serviceable? Fortunately, there is a robust process in place to make sure that does not happen. Here in the 86th Vehicle Readiness Squadron's general purpose light shop, it is our job to maintain a 1,033-vehicle general purpose fleet with only 34 military and civilian technicians.

Out of more than 1,000 GPL vehicles, 38 are critical first responder vehicles belonging to the 86th Airlift Wing at Ramstein Air Base and the 569th U.S. Forces Police Squadron on Kapaun Air Station. Eight ambulances and 29 police cars comprise our priority workload, which our customers put to use on a daily basis. These vehicles deal with emergencies both on and off base and cover 1,100 square miles to help and protect 57,000 Department of Defense personnel within the KMC. With these vehicles being the priority within our maintenance cycle, we do our best to get them back to their respective squadron in a timely manner with the best quality work possible. There are three primary inspections and services, which we provide to all our vehicle assets — limited technical inspections, preventative maintenance inspections and scheduled lube, oil and filter changes.

During these services, we conduct numerous checks to ensure the vehicles are safe and reliable. When we initially receive a vehicle, we perform an acceptance LTI before we give the vehicle to its respective squadron. It is much like your first doctors visit. However, instead of checking your blood pressure and reflexes, we check the vehicle's mileage, lights and fluids. During the LTI, the vehicle is thoroughly checked to ensure all of the components are working properly, and there are no manufacturer flaws. We also take note of what the vehicle is equipped with so that when it comes in for a yearly inspection or periodic maintenance, we are able to ensure all of the components are intact and still functioning correctly.

The next type of inspection is a preventative maintenance inspection, which is performed at least annually and every time a vehicle is turned in for maintenance. During this inspection, we check that all functions are still working properly to make sure the vehicle operates within its performance parameters. We also inspect everything from the engine to the upholstery, mirrors, paint and lights for damage or misuse.

A SLOF is completed on an 18-month cycle or when mileage dictates. This is a more in-depth service that usually includes a change of fluid and filters, as well as lubricating all moving components underneath the vehicle. Careful attention to detail is necessary to ensure manufacturer requirements and Air Force Instruction guidance are met.

These critical vehicles respond to a wide variety of emergencies both on and off base and are important assets to our U.S. Air Forces in Europe mission. By the nature of the job, these vehicles are put into circumstances where additional wear and tear is a common occurrence. The GPL shop uses all resources available, to include local parts procurement, contract repair, and extended duty days to quickly return these vehicles to their organizations.

In the 86th VRS keeping our standards high and our quality of work even higher, these vehicles are able to perform their mission on a daily basis and help the KMC stay safe and well protected. We strive to have excellence in all we do to keep the mission on track and more than 57,000 DOD personnel safe. Rest assured, the next time you need to call 112 for an emergency, by knowing we have done our job, the police or ambulance you need will be there to help you as quickly as possible.

New surcharge on Visa purchases

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — As of Jan. 27, merchants in the United States and U.S. Territories are permitted to impose a surcharge on any credit card transaction that uses a MasterCard or Visa branded card, which includes the Government Travel Charge Card, both for Individually Billed Accounts and Centrally Billed Accounts.

This surcharge is permitted to be charged in all states except California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, New York, Oklahoma and Texas.

While some merchants may elect not to charge this additional fee, those that do are required to notify customers before they make an actual purchase — at the store entrance and at the point of sale — or in an online environment, on the first page that references credit card brands. The surcharge will be included in the total transaction amount and will be listed separately on the sales receipt.

This new surcharge is an authorized a reimbursable expense while on official travel. The Joint Federal Travel Regulations and the Joint Travel Regulations have been updated accordingly, effective 27 January 2013. If a traveler is charged this surcharge, they should add it as a separate expense under the Non-Mileage Expense section of their voucher, ensuring that the additional surcharge is not also included in the total of the related expense. For additional information about this new surcharge, go to: http://usa.visa.com/personal/using_visa/checkout_fees/index.html.

Air Force unit to help improve airfield security in Slovenia

by Airman 1st Class Dymekre Allen
86th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

Airmen from the 435th Contingency Response Group traveled to Cerklje Air Base, Slovenia, to conduct a security familiarization event Jan. 21 through 25.

The 435th CRG is an organizationuniquely suited for building partnership missions. With 42 different career fields, the unit can engage with partner nations in core mission areas across the Air Force spectrum.

Master. Sgt. Jay Peavey, 435th CRG air advisor and security superintendent, led a four-man team to exchange ideas and identify possible improvements in the Cerklje airfield security process.

"This airfield security familiarization event was a valuable experience to further the partner relationship with the Slovene military," said Peavey. "Future exchange activities will benefit from this opportunity."

The security familiarization training enabled the Airmen to teach and learn new mission techniques from counterparts of other nations.

"It was a privilege to work with professional peers in pursuit of common airfield security goals," said Staff Sgt. Matthew Meadows, 435th CRG air advisor and security forces instructor. "This was an excellent learning opportunity for all participants."

With these partnerships, the U.S. is able to become familiar with new mission techniques of the Slovenian counterparts and improve partner nation interoperability.

"Security considerations are a cooperative endeavor by nature," said Peavey. "I was very impressed with the talent and capacity of my Slovenian allies and look forward to future engagement opportunities."

Take Note

Bulk trash pickup

A bulk trash pickup on Ramstein is scheduled for Monday. Residents should place items such as furniture, grills and mattresses on the sidewalk near the underground dumpsters after 6 p.m. Sunday. Pickup will take place the second and last Monday of the month until May. Then from May to September, they will be every Monday. For more information, call the civil engineer customer service line at 489-7703 or the Ramstein Recycling Center at 480-4191.

Closure

The KMC housing offices will close at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday for training.

Fee for incoming pets

Since February, pet owners have to pay a fee of €55 when importing up to three pets per shipment from a non-European country. Ramstein is considered a first point of entry to the EU for incoming rotators. The Kaiserslautern county veterinarian examines the incoming pets and keeps their health certificates. After the examination, pet owners will receive a receipt for the service as proof to other EU authorities. All official veterinary offices in the EU are connected by a web-based system called "Traces" (Trade and Control Expert Systems). This system enables veterinarians to exchange health certificates and information with other EU veterinarians. If pets are transferred to other Non-EU countries (like Turkey) they are not required to be examined. In this case it suffices when pet owners show their orders to a non-EU country. Pet owners, who have a valid EU Pet Passport (which has been required since 2004 for pets to travel within the EU), are not required to pay the examination fee when returning from a vacation to the states. For more information, call the 86th Airlift Wing Host Nation office at 06371-952655 or 314-480-2094.

Tax assistance

The Ramstein Tax Center is open until June 15 in the Ramstein Legal Office, Bldg. 2137, across from the Southside Gym. Hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays and Tuesdays, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesdays; 9 a.m. to noon Thursdays, and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fridays. Taxes are due April 15. Automatic extension will be until June 15. Walk-in only for military members and dependents; retirees and Department of Defense civilian employees must make an appointment at 06371-47-1040 or 480-1040.The tax centers on Kleber Kaserne and in Bldg. 3701 on Landstuhl are open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. For details, call the Kleber Tax Center at 0631-411-7688 or 483-7688, and the Landstuhl Tax Center at 06371-86-6334 or 486-6334.

CCAF graduation

The cut-off date for the Community College of the Air Force April 2013 class is March 1. To be considered for graduation in the April class, CCAF must receive all documentation (i.e. transcripts, CLEP scores, etc) for degree candidate submissions on or before this date. Students must also be enrolled in the degree program by March 1. Contact the Ramstein Education Center at 480-2032 for more information.

"The IDOC is essentially the nucleus of our operations and will be a combined effort between U.S. Air Force law and order," said Schoen. "The KMC fire department, along with Army fire department personnel contribute to this project."

The mission of the U.S. Forces Police Squadron is to provide law and order for all Americans in the KMC. Their patrol area is 1,150 square miles in which they provide full-time security to 16 different installations either by way of entry control, patrol response or anything determined to be security related. This project provides the KMC with critical capabilities to rapidly incorporate additional Air Force, Army and host nation departments into an integrated emergency response team.

Once completed, the IDOC will be the principal law enforcement and base defense operations center for U.S. Air Forces in Europe.

to them," said Keith Davis, chief of education and training. The fair was held in the KMCC in order to reach the largest audience possible. The fair's goal was to educate not only active duty members, but their spouses and children as well.

"It affects everyone, whether they have a degree or not," said Mark Rix, education service specialist. "In today's world, you need to have an education. We are able to help anyone get an education, whether it's a dependent's scholarship, a spouse using the GI Bill or active duty members continuing school while working a full time job."

The Ramstein Education Office has won two major awards in the last two years highlighting their military customer service. In 2011, they were awarded the Government Agency Executive award and last year they were awarded the United States Air Forces in Europe Nathan Altschuler award.

"We are the busiest, most diverse education office in the United States Air Force," said Davis. "There have been a lot of hurdles, but our excellence was still recognized. We want people to know we'll take care of them and make it easy for them to achieve their goals."

The Air Force is the only branch that has its own degree program. The Community College of the Air Force is a federally-chartered degree-granting institution that serves the U.S. Air Force's enlisted total force. CCAF partnered with more than 90 affiliated Air Force schools, 82 education service offices located worldwide and more than 1,500 civilian academic institutions to serve more than 320,000 active, guard and reserve enlisted personnel, making CCAF the world's largest community college system, said Rix.

"There are a lot of things you can do with an education; you can take it into society and your workplace. There are no negatives to having an education," said Rix. "It's like what Nelson Mandela said, 'Education is the most powerful weapon you can use to change the world.'"

370th Sapper Company cases guidon, prepares for deployment

by 1st Lt. Timothy Conroy
54th Engineer Battalion Public Affairs, 21st TSC

BAMBERG, Germany — The 21st Theater Sustainment Command's 18th Engineer Brigade 370th Sapper Company cased its colors recently here in preparation for their upcoming deployment to Afghanistan.

The 370th Sapper Company previously deployed to Logar Province, Afghanistan from 2010 to 2011. "They know their training and know it well. I can't say how proud I am of them," said Lt. Col. Thomas Austin, commander of the 54th Engineer Battalion and native of Shelby, Mich. "They are going forward into danger, so others don't have to. "As they must leave their families behind, it is now time to turn to their military families as they prepare for combat operations in Afghanistan," said Austin. Capt. Craig Miller has commanded the 370th Sapper Company since June of last year and expressed how all of the back-to-back training events have prepared his company for success in Afghanistan.

"I look forward to standing with you all when we unveil that guidon," said Miller. The 370th Sapper Company will deploy to Afghanistan to continue their route clearance mission while in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. In preparation for this deployment, the company had three field training exercises including a rotation at Joint Multinational Readiness Center, Hohenfels, Germany.

New leaders assumed command of four 7th Civil Support Command and 21st Theater Sustainment Command units during separate ceremonies in January.

Col. Jenifer Hug assumed command of the 196th Medical Support Unit from Col. Sandra Alvey, Jan. 13. Hug was commissioned into the U.S. Army Reserve in September 1990, after earning a pharmacy degree from the University of Montana-Missoula.

Some of her past assignments include working as a pharmacy/medical logistics officer, Joint Task Force Timberwolf in Jutiapa, Guatemala, and as assistant director of pharmacy, Landstuhl Regional Medical Center. She is currently the supervisor of the Ambulatory Care Pharmacy at LRMC in her civilian job.

Lt. Col. W. Fitzgerald Campbell assumed command of the 7th Warrior Training Brigade from Col. Christine Fiala, Jan. 6. Campbell served as the chief of training for the 7th CSC, prior to taking command of the 7th WTB.

The new 1172nd Movement Control Team's commander is 1st Lt. Matthew Curcio who took the reins from Capt. Daniel Miller, in a ceremony also held Jan. 6. The 1172nd MCT is based at Grafenwoehr Training Area, Germany.

Capt. Christa Clemons is the new commander of the 793rd Movement Control Team after assuming command from Capt. Stephanie Mann on Jan. 23. Mann and the Soldiers of the 793rd MCT just returned from a nine-month deployment to Tarin Kowt, Afghanistan, Jan. 16.

Mann will now move to Texas to join her husband, who is in the Air Force and preparing for his upcoming deployment to Afghanistan.

"Never forget what you represent when you wear this uniform. Always wear it proudly," said Mann in her final remarks.

the future?

Answer: These clubs are so valuable; you really cannot put a monetary price on it. These clubs are a place where Soldiers can gather together as masters of their craft. They get to know one another, share ideas, network. Those experiences are just invaluable.

Question: Would you comment on the partnership programs in Europe?

Answer: It's funny you should mention partnerships, because our partner countries can now become members of the Sergeant Morales Club as well. We want to recognize their noncommissioned officers who set the standard for their soldiers. They have to go through the same process as our Soldiers, but it is achievable. Morales members are a great example to our partner countries, they show a standard of what a professional noncommissioned officer is and what they can do to prepare and train Soldiers.

Question: What is the way ahead for our forces in the areas of fitness, training and discipline?

Answer: Fit, disciplined and well trained is something I expect U.S. Army Europe Soldiers to be and I expect leaders to enforce. Fitness of course is the foundation. It is the first training event of the day, and I think our Army is going to continue to move on with Physical Readiness Training. I think we will see a new fitness test sometime late this fall.

Discipline is doing the right thing when no one is watching, and if you are a leader, it's holding Soldiers accountable to those standards. Again, this is a fundamental foundation for our Army, so I don't see that going anywhere. I do believe leaders need to do more to enforce standards and hold Soldiers accountable. Also, Soldiers need to understand their responsibility in understanding the standards and being held to those standards.

As for being well trained, the Warrior Leader Course is a great place to get trained here in Germany. We have 324 Soldiers per class, and we are always looking to get one more.

Question: Do you have any more thoughts you would like to convey to U.S. Army Europe and the 21st Theater Sustainment Command?

Answer: I think that our Army needs to have more of these kinds (Sergeant Morales Club and Sergeant Audie Murphy Club) of ceremonies. We need to clearly demonstrate the prestige and importance of becoming a non-commissioned officer and, once you are a non-commissioned officer and you exceed the standard, becoming a member of the Sergeant Morales Club.

USAFE specialists install softphones

U.S. Air Forces in Europe communications specialists are leading Air Force transformation and are currently implementing the latest in telephone service technology: telephone services directly on your computer desktop.

While base communications squadrons have been busy rolling out those familiar Cisco phones to replace the older phones, the next step in telephone system transformation is the installation of software phones or "softphones."

Cisco IP Communicator is the program USAFE is providing to perform softphone functions. Once installed on your computer, the softphone application will provide the same look, feel and service as the Cisco phone that physically sits on your desk.

"Softphones are much less expensive than traditional telephones and significantly easier to field and maintain," said Adam Sowells, the USAFE theater engineering lead. "In a future of constrained resources and a cultural change to adopt application based services, softphones are a necessity. When coupled with virtual private network client software, softphones provide DSN access anywhere to connect to the high-speed internet. Softphones also facilitate telecommuting and continued DSN connectivity while TDY."

The only cost in implementing softphones is the purchase of a headset, normally $30 to $60 each, a bargain when compared to the $700 (or more) cost of a traditional phone. Individual units will be responsible for providing headsets to their personnel.

How do you get the softphone installed? Simply contact the Enterprise Service Desk at 478-HELP (478-4357) to open a trouble ticket. Softphone installation requires local administrator rights. Tell the ESD technician you would like to have Cisco IP Communicator installed on your machine. A local Client Systems Team technician will install the software and ascertain other technical information they will need to complete the process.

Still have questions? Contact the local communications squadron. They have all the information needed to start "going soft."

JMPC returns Eurocorps members to Ramstein

by Senior Airman Whitney Stork
86th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

Ramstein is the focal point for deployment travel for the U.S., North Atlantic Treaty Organization and Eurocorps because of the capabilities of the Joint Mobility Processing Center.

The JMPC processes numerous units to be able to get to and from a deployed location as quickly and efficiently as possible. The most recent unit processed through was Eurcocorps troops after returning from a year-long deployment to Kabul, Afghanistan.

The force deployed troops last January in support of the International Security Assistance Force in Kabul. The Eurocorps is a multinational army corps for the European Union and the Alliance.

"This is a good location with incredible facilities, particularly in the processing capability, and a history of working with United States Air Forces in Europe here at Ramstein," said 2nd Lt. Gregory Souder, deployment division officer in charge.

After their return, the 721st Air Mobility Squadron dropped the baggage off with the JMPC to help coordinate a customs check. Airmen of the 86th Airlift Wing moved the pallets around for the customs agents and, if needed, repalletized the Eurocorps gear.

"One of the 86th logistics planners is lead for the whole mission and coordinates a bus to get the Eurocorps members off the plane and to the JMPC, customs check, USO support and the overall directing of the members working with the highest ranking members," said Souder.

A lead logistics planner preps for a mission as soon as the International Development Research Center is notified of a movement.

"Our sharp Airmen accomplish the prep work nearly right away and just keep tabs on the mission for changes," said Souder. "After the respective Eurocorps transportation arrives and customs is through with their mission, the support is through."

The 86th AW supports countless large-scale missions a year, requiring 12 military affiliates to coordinate and execute their arrival or departure for more than an hour each time.

"Support like this has high visibility and is a great show of support and unity among allies," said Souder. "A good relationship between Eurocorps and NATO is vital to operations in USAFE."

Ramstein youth group brings home innovation award

Youths learn about the real-world application of robotics technologies Oct. 10, 2012 on Ramstein. The 4-H club sponsors an annual national youth science day.

Every year 4-H Club sponsors a national youth science day which allows 4-H'ers all throughout the world to conduct similar experiments. This year was the eco-robot project.

"The kids used vibrating motors from cell phones, toothbrushes and lithium batteries to create a miniature robot.

They then used these robots to clean simulated oil spills and environmental contaminates," said Mona Hamilton, Ramstein Youth Programs Director. "They used double-sided tape to tape the batteries and the motors onto toothbrushes and when they completed the circuit, the toothbrushes would vibrate."

The children, most between the ages of 9 and 12, were given a map that showed various geographical features and used materials such as rice and sand to simulate a contaminant.

They set their toothbrush robots loose on the map to see how much of the contaminant they could clean without direct human guidance. They could, however, use items such as cones to try to direct their creations in a particular direction, Hamilton said.

To help demonstrate the experiment's practical application, Ramstein Youth Programs brought in members of the 86th Civil Engineer Squadron to explain how science and technology help them overcome the challenges they face on a daily basis and successfully accomplish the mission. Airmen from explosive ordnance disposal also came to give a demonstration of the technology that keeps them safe.

"All of the programs that participated in national science day were able to submit their projects to the national 4-H office," said Hamilton. "We won one of the innovation awards."

Ramstein Youth Services has a variety of after school programs for children of all ages to participate in.

21st TSC wins five Army legal service awards

by Staff Sgt. Warren W. Wright, Jr.
21st TSC Public Affairs

Four 21st Theater Sustainment Command legal service centers won five Army-level awards for excellence in claims and legal assistance for fiscal year 2011.

Maj. Gen. Aundre F. Piggee, the commanding general of the 21st TSC, presented plaques to representatives of the centers during a ceremony on Kleber Kaserne Feb. 1.

This marks the 11th year straight a 21st TSC law center has been recognized for distinction in legal assistance.

The 21st TSC won three of five legal assistance awards and two of four claims awards in Europe, marking the sixth consecutive year the 21st TSC has won a majority of the Army-level client-services awards in Europe.

Each year, Army legal offices compete for the Army Chief of Staff Award for Excellence in Legal Assistance and the Judge Advocate General of the U.S. Army Award for Excellence in Claims.

"This is an enormous command, and the challenges of supporting a footprint as large as ours is a big challenge. Our people work very hard at taking care of our Soldiers and our families," said Stephen W. Smith, the senior civilian attorney for the 21st TSC, and a native of Hershey, Pa. "When the Chief of Staff of the Army and the Judge Advocate General recognize them as being among the best in their field, we thought it was important to give our own commanding general the opportunity to echo that sentiment here today and to pass on his own congratulations."

The Kaiserslautern Legal Services Center was awarded both the Judge Advocate General award for excellence in claims as well as the Army Chief of Staff award for excellence in legal assistance, while the Stuttgart Law Center earned an award for excellence in claims.

"Our ability to do well each year means we have great employees dedicated to the mission of Army Legal Assistance," said Mark Christensen, the chief of client services at the Kaiserslautern Legal Services Center and a native of Cadott, Wisc.

"I enjoy working with these folks who agree that our clients are the most deserving in the world, the U.S. Soldiers and their family members who sacrifice and suffer more than most non-military citizens will know."

Also earning awards were the Netherlands Law Center and the Belgium-based Northern Law Center for excellence in legal assistance.

"Taking care of Soldiers is what we're all about. We do that on a daily basis," said Smith. "We get so involved in the day-to-day rendering of legal services that sometimes it's easy to lose sight of the remarkable work that our folks do. These ceremonies provide an opportunity to take a pause from our daily activity and put it all in perspective."

"We take enormous pride in the accomplishments of our claims and legal assistance personnel, not only here in Kaiserslautern, but also in our outlying offices," said Smith. "They're the best in the business."

"Each one of us is prepared to go as far as we need to insure that each client gets the attention and time necessary to address and hopefully resolve their legal situation," added Christensen. "Every work day is another challenge, and to keep doing it so well requires that everyone enjoy the job, mission and focus and bring that attitude to each new person who walks in the door."

21st TSC hosts Sergeant Audie Murphy, Sergeant Morales Club induction ceremony

by Staff Sgt. Alexander A. Burnett
21st Theater Substainment Command Public Affairs

Soldiers from throughout the Kaiserslautern Military Community were inducted into the Sergeant Audie Murphy Club and Sergeant Morales Club during a ceremony hosted by the 21st Theater Sustainment Command at the Galaxy Theater on the Vogelweh Military Complex, Feb. 1.

The ceremony began with several Soldiers standing up in the audience to recite the Soldiers Creed and a presentation of the history of Army NCOs.

Several NCOs stood on the stage dressed in Army uniforms from World War I through the global war on terror.

The guest speaker was Command Sgt. Maj. David Davenport Sr., the U.S. Army Europe command sergeant major. After giving a few words on the importance of becoming a member of both the Sergeant Morales and Audie Murphy Clubs, Davenport presented each of the nine inductees with medals, lifetime membership scrolls and an award.

Inducted into the Sergeant Morales Club were: Staff Sgt. Donmonic Simpson and Sgt. 1st Class Jesus Arellano, both from the 10th Army Air and Missile Defense Command; Staff Sgt. Matthew Defreo and Sgt. 1st Class Mallory Niese-Morrow, both from the 95th Military Police Battalion; Staff Sgt. Carlos Molinares from the 230th Military Police Company; and 1st Sgt. Phillip Griffiths from the 18th Combat Service Support Battalion.

Inducted into the Sergeant Audie Murphy Club were: Sgts. Robert Shortsleeves, Keith Howse and Christopher Slone, all from the 515th Transportation Company. "I am very excited. I have been in the Army a long time and getting my medal today reaffirms my dedication," said Griffiths, who was inducted into the Sergeant Morales Club in 2004, but did not get is medal until this ceremony due to his many deployments. "I am proud to be a part of this club, and I hope this sets the example for other Soldiers."

The Sergeant Morales Club was established in 1973 by Lt. Gen. George S. Blanchard to promote the highest ideals of integrity, professionalism and leadership for the enlisted force serving in Europe. Members exemplify a special kind of leadership characterized by a personal concern for the needs, training, development and welfare of Soldiers.

The Sergeant Audie Murphy Club is a private U.S. Army organization for noncommissioned officers. According to the Forces Command regulation for the club, members must exemplify leadership characterized by personal concern for the needs, training, development, and welfare of Soldiers and concern for families of Soldiers.

"These Soldiers are setting the example of being fit, disciplined and well trained and this ceremony showed them a standard of what right looks like," said Davenport. "These clubs are so valuable; you cannot put a price on it."

NCOA instructors visit VRS under shadow program

by Airman 1st Class Jordan Castelan
86th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

Instructors from the NCO academy visited the 86th Vehicle Readiness Squadron on Ramstein Jan. 30 to further expand teaching expertise.

The Kissling NCOA, located on Kapaun Air Station, continuously engages their instructors in activities to enhance their teaching corps.

"The NCOA shadowing program started as a professional development opportunity for the instructors," said Chief Master Sgt. Christopher Moore, U.S. Air Forces in Europe Headquarters commandant of Kissling NCOA. "We realized that we could take the opportunity to partner with host units locally to gain a better understanding of Airmen from any particular unit. Just as the students gain from the interaction with other Airmen in different Air Force Specialty Codes, the instructors now have a better understanding of all different AFSCs."

The shadowing program aims to improve class dynamics and bolster instructor-to-student relations.

"After each shadowing opportunity we meet in a core group atmosphere," said Moore.

"The instructors share what they experienced and discuss how that can be applied to teaching and communicating the curriculum more efficiently for each student.

We have already started to receive students who recalled the instructors coming out to their workplaces, which has helped to foster rapport in the classrooms."

Leadership from the VRS viewed the shadowing program as a way to improve the quality of NCOA instructor capabilities, said Moore.

"Having the instructors come out here is a worthwhile experience," said Senior Master Sgt. Richard Albeck, 86th VRS vehicle fleet manager. "It's important for instructors to get out in the field and have a boots-on-ground approach to see what daily challenges different Airmen go through."

Moore believes possessing the highest quality of leadership possible is necessary for the most advanced Air Force in the world.

"It is absolutely pertinent for the Air Force that we develop our NCOs to have critical thinking skills and solid leadership principles through professional military education," said Moore.

What to do if you have the flu

by Chuck Roberts
LRMC Public Affairs

Peak flu season in Europe hasn't arrived yet (that usually occurs in February through March) but that doesn't mean people aren't getting the flu. But how do you know if that sick and achy feeling is just a bad cold or the flu, and once you determine your particular type of illness, what should you do to minimize the discomfort and get better?

Army medical officials offer the following guidance on what to do if you think you or your children have seasonal flu or flu-like illness.

"There are several steps you can take to prevent you and your family from getting ill such as getting your flu shot, washing your hands and covering your cough. If you do get ill it is important to stay at home to decrease the risk of spreading the flu to others," said Lt. Col. Kathi Hill, Chief of Preventive Medicine at Landstuhl Regional Medical Center, and the Europe Regional Medical Center Command Consultant for Public Health Nursing.

Some common questions may be:
What are the symptoms to look for?

If you wake up not feeling well, the following are common flu symptoms: fever (typically greater than 100 F or 37.8 C). It is important to know that you can still have the flu without a fever, headache, extreme tiredness, dry cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose or body aches. Stomach symptoms such as nausea, vomiting and diarrhea may also occur, but are more common in children that adults. Some people infected with the flu may have respiratory symptoms without a fever.

Should I contact my healthcare provider or go the Emergency Room if I think I have the flu?

If you get sick with flu symptoms and are at high risk of flu complications, or you are concerned about your illness, call your healthcare provider for advice. High risk individuals should seek care early if they develop flu symptoms. Their providers will determine whether flu testing or treatment is needed.

The following individuals are at higher risk for severe illness or complications from flu:

- Children younger than 2 years old
- People 65 and older
- Pregnant women
- People who have:
  - Cancer
  - Blood disorders (including sickle cell disease)
  - Chronic lung disease [including asthma or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD)]
  - Diabetes, heart disease, kidney disorders, liver disorders
  - Neurological disorders (including nervous system, brain or spinal cord)
  - Neuromuscular disorders (including muscular dystrophy and multiple sclerosis)
  - Weakened immune systems (including people with AIDS)

Should I go to the emergency room?

The emergency room should be used for people who are very sick. You should not go to the emergency room if you are only mildly ill. If you go to the emergency room and you are not sick with the flu, you may catch it from people who do have it. An emergency room visit should be made if you or your child experience chest pain, shortness of breath, wheezing, fever with a rash, unable to take in water, sudden dizziness, or confusion. If you are unsure, you should call your health care provider.

Fortunately, most healthy people with mild flu illness do not need medical care or antiviral drugs. Over-the-counter cold and flu medications can help lessen symptoms such as fever, cough and congestion.

How should I treat myself or my child while sick at home?

- Stay home for at least 24 hours after your fever has gone (temperature is below 100 F or 37.8 C) except to get medical care or for other necessities. Your fever should be gone without the use of fever-reducing medicine, or when all your symptoms have resolved.
- If you must leave your home or barracks for healthcare or food procurement, wear a surgical/face mask. Try to arrange for a family member, friend or neighbor to obtain food and other items for you.
- Keep away from others as much as possible. This is very important to help reduce the spread of the virus!

Healthcare workers may return to work after a 24-hour fever free period but cannot care for immune-compromised patients for seven days from symptom onset and until 24 hours without fever, whichever is longer.

All home, isolation and exclusion periods apply regardless of whether antiviral medications are taken.

- Drink clear fluids (such as water, broth, sports drinks, electrolyte beverages for infants) to keep from being dehydrated, get plenty of rest and follow good hand, respiratory and cough hygiene measures.
- Do not share dishes and eating utensils. These can be washed in the dishwasher or with hot soapy water.
- Have everyone in the household wash hands often with soap and water, especially after coughing or sneezing. Alcohol-based hand cleaners are also effective. Restrict visitors to the home!
- Cover your cough and wash your hands often, even when taking antiviral medications, to prevent spreading influenza to others. Avoid close contact (within six feet) with others and do not go to school or work while ill.
- Call your clinic if you (or your child) experience any side effects; i.e. nausea, vomiting, rash, or unusual behavior.
- If you or your child is prescribed antiviral medications, please take all of it as directed.
- Take over-the-counter medications for symptom relief as needed for fever, pain and cough. These include medicines such as acetaminophen (Tylenol), ibuprofen (Advil, Motrin, Nuprin), and/or cough and cold medicines. These medicines do not need to be taken regularly if your symptoms improve.
- Do not give aspirin (acetylsalicylic acid) or products that contain aspirin (e.g. bismuth subsalicylate - Pepto Bismol) to children or teenagers 18 years old or younger.
- Children younger than 4 years of age should not be given over-the-counter cold medications without first speaking with a healthcare provider. Call your medical provider or clinic for guidance.
- Throw away tissues and other disposable items used by the sick person in the trash. Wash your hands after touching used tissues and similar waste.
- Keep surfaces (especially bedside tables, surfaces in the bathroom, and toys for children) clean by wiping them down with a household disinfectant according to directions on the product label. If using individual moistened cloths change them frequently and discard.
- Linens, eating utensils and dishes belonging to those who are sick do not need to be cleaned separately, but importantly these items should not be shared without washing thoroughly first.
- Wash linens (such as bed sheets and towels) by using household laundry soap and tumble dry on a hot setting.
- Avoid "hugging" laundry prior to washing it to prevent contaminating yourself.
- Wash your hands well after handling dirty laundry
- Designate one person as the ill person's caregiver, if possible. Try to identify a person as the primary caretaker who is not at high risk of flu associated complications.
- When holding small children who are sick, place their chin on your shoulder so that they will not cough in your face.
- Monitor yourself and household members for flu symptoms and contact your local health care clinic if you have questions.
- Minimize close face-to-face contact (less than about 6 feet away) with the sick person. If close contact is unavoidable, consider wearing a facemask (surgical mask) if available and tolerable.
- Used facemasks should be taken off and placed immediately in the regular trash; avoid reusing if possible. Wash your hands immediately afterwards.

In Germany, beneficiaries can call the Nurse Advice Line 24 hours a day at 00800-4759-2330 from most countries in Europe.

No one in my family has gotten the flu yet. Should I still receive the flu vaccine?

Yes. Seasonal flu vaccinations are available at your local health clinic. The Center for Disease Control recommends that even if you have had the flu you should receive the influenza vaccine. The vaccine covers three strains of flu so being vaccinated protects you from other strains. Health officials advise everyone to get their flu vaccine.

Black History Month luncheon takes place Feb. 19

The 86th Airlift Wing will sponsor a Black History Month Luncheon 11 a.m. Feb. 19 at the Ramstein Officers' Club. Guest speaker will be Chief Master Sgt. Jack Johnson Jr., Command Senior Enlisted Leader, U.S. Africa Command. Tickets are $12 for club members and $15 for non-club members. For more information contact MSgt Tracey Brumfield at 479-4239 or 06371-46-4239.

The story of Black History Month begins in 1915, half a century after the Thirteenth Amendment abolished slavery in the U.S. That September, the Harvard-trained historian Carter G. Woodson and the prominent minister Jesse E. Moorland founded the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, an organization dedicated to researching and promoting achievements by black Americans and other peoples of African descent.

Known today as the Association for the Study of African American Life and History, the group sponsored a national Negro History week in 1926, choosing the second week of February to coincide with the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglass.

The event inspired schools and communities nationwide to organize local celebrations, establish history clubs and host performances and lectures.

In the decades that followed, mayors of cities across the country began issuing yearly proclamations recognizing Negro History Week. By the late 1960s, thanks in part to the Civil Rights Movement, Negro History Week had evolved into Black History Month on many college campuses.

President Gerald R. Ford officially recognized Black History Month in 1976, calling upon the public to "seize the opportunity to honor the too-often neglected accomplishments of black Americans in every area of endeavor throughout our history." Since then, every American president has designated February as Black History Month and endorsed a specific theme. The 2013 theme, "At the Crossroad of Freedom and Equality: The Emancipation Proclamation and The March on Washington," pays tribute to the anniversary of two important African American turning points — the 1863 Emancipation Proclamation and the 1963 March on Washington.

Going to extremes to save money

by Airman 1st Class Holly Cook
86th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

When people first hear the words extreme couponing, they might think of people walking around the commissary with piles of coupons and buying every sale item off the shelf; they imagine the extremes.

Well that's not always the case. Using organization and group support, families in the KMC are saving money the quick and easy way.

"One day I was flipping through channels and came across this show called 'Extreme Couponing,'" said Tricia Beverly, wife of Army Staff Sgt. Wesley Beverly, 21st Theater Sustainment Command Headquarters material control and accountant supervisor. "So one day, some friends and I were talking and one of them brought up the show. From there we said, "Hey, let's give it a try." So we went out that Sunday morning and purchased about two papers and went home and clipped."

Here in the KMC, couponing has become bigger than ever with the help of this group's Facebook page and informative classes.

"Now there are 550 members and the group is still growing," said Beverly.

The members of the couponing group spread their knowledge to the public through educational classes where members of the KMC can learn techniques to couponing.

"There are also classes for beginners or anyone who just wants to come out and learn more techniques on couponing in Germany," said Beverly. "These classes are called 'Coupons and Coupons.' They are usually held at the Java Café on Rhine Ordnance Barracks."

By attending these classes or joining the club, anyone in the KMC can learn how to save money the easy way. A KMC member's grocery bill will decline with each coupon using these techniques.

"By couponing, I've cut my monthly grocery bill in half," said Beverly. "In a month, I can save anywhere from $200 to $500 with coupons."

Instead of going to the extremes to save on your next purchase, keep it quick and simple by clipping money-saving coupons. Who knows how much you can save on your next shopping trip?

Movement control unit conducts mission readiness exercise

by 1st Lt. Chaz Deering
39th Movement Control Battalion Public Affairs, 21s TSC

Soldiers of the 21st Theater Sustainment Command's 39th Transportation Battalion Movement Control conducted a mission readiness exercise on Panzer Kaserne, Jan. 14 to18, to prepare for their upcoming deployment in support of Operation Enduring Freedom.

Once the MRE commenced, the battalion virtually disembarked Germany and was operating in full gear in Bagram, Afghanistan.

"The intent of the training was to emulate the current movement control battalion's mission in Afghanistan to provide a realistic training event for our Soldiers and leaders in the battalion," said Maj. Jessica Salgado, operations officer for the 39th Trans. Bn.

Soldiers and leaders completed scenarios that employed critical thinking skills that included planning strategic projects to briefing the battalion commander and diverse Soldier issues often encountered downrange.

Decisions made, good or bad, had a range of consequences that would affect the outcome of the scenarios and test the battalion's processes and procedures.

Although movement control battalion Soldiers are typically movement control specialists, Soldiers with different military occupational specialties cross trained to meet the battalion's objectives. "My (military occupation) specialty is a heavy equipment operator, but I learned skills that a movement control specialist uses, so I was constantly busy learning the job," said Spc. Michael Boswell, with 39th Trans. Bn. "I enjoyed the authenticity of the training event; it seemed like we were actually downrange."

The MRE was planned by Salgado and the Kaiserslautern Mission Command Training Center, and involved support from the 39th Trans. Bn., the 21st TSC and the 49th Joint Movement Control Battalion.

"The KMCTC support during the planning process was phenomenal," said Salgado. "Their guidance and expertise made the computerized training event a reality."

To assist with the training exercise, the 39th Trans. Bn. flew in two members from the 49th JMCB; the unit that they will be replacing in Afghanistan.

During the past five months, the two units developed a working relationship including a visit to Bagram in November to better prepare for their transfer of authority.

Overall, the unit's relationship and ability to effectively communicate led to a successful training event preparing the 39th Trans. Bn. with the ability to provide movement control for United States and coalition forces in support of their upcoming deployment, added Salgado.

Human resources has new location, services consolidate

A concept to consolidate all Baumholder newcomers functions has been in the planning for five years and on Jan. 23 the first phase of this plan became a reality when the Directorate of Human Resources opened for business in its new facility in Bldg. 8660.

If you need a new ID card, passport, retiree assistance, casualty assistance or any other personal service, the new facility now offers one-stop assistance for all these services and more.

The DHR began its move Jan. 14 into Bldg. 8660, across from the Postal Service Center. The move provides a more central location for services critical to the community. Some of the DHR services were limited or closed during the move but now all services have resumed at their new location in Bldg. 8660.

"In this building we find such services as ID cards, passports, finance and in-processing as well as the military personnel division.

This makes it a one-stop shop for our new Soldiers arriving. It makes it easy for the community to get the services they need in one specific location," said Chris Macri, director of human resources.

"This is truly a great opportunity to provide services for the Garrison, for the community and the folks that live here and work here and play here," he said.

Here's a complete list of services now available in Bldg. 8660.

- Military Personnel Services
- Ration Cards
- Survivor Outreach Services
- Civilian Misconduct Actions
- In-processing (1)
- ITC (In-processing Training Center) (1)
- MilPay Finance Customer Service
- ID Cards/IACS/Passports

The Community Information Center has also moved to Bldg. 8660.

Additionally, Army Community Service now offers a new service, a satellite lending closet, in Bldg. 8670. The lending closet at ACS will remain in service at its current location.

Macri talks briefly about the new facility in a video posted on the USAG Baumholder Facebook page at: http://www.facebook.com/USAGBaumholder. The direct link to the video is available at: http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=dF-JGdKT2dc.

Karin Blessmann, an employee for the Directorate of Human Resources, settles in at her new work station and gets ready to assist customers. DHR has consolidated its services in Bldg. 8660.

Bldg. 8660, the old site of the Division Artillery, is now the home for the U.S. Army Garrison Baumholder Directorate of Human Resources and the home for customer service.

"We were very happy with our passport service yesterday," said Cheryl Dines Patterson, a DHR customer who posted her appreciation for the new facility on Facebook.

Building roller coasters

Fourth, fifth and sixth graders at Wetzel Elementary School in Baumholder create a roller coaster prototype in their STEM class at the school. The students followed the engineering design process: define the problem, research, create solutions, choose the best solution, develop, build and prototype, test and redesign. While working on the design, students problem solved while seeing many forces at work, including friction, centrifugal force, gravity and speed. They experimented with potential and kinetic energy in order to engineer the best roller coaster prototype.

Supporting more than 30,000 missions, moving more than 147,000 passengers and 17 million pounds of cargo in the past year, the 86th Vehicle Readiness Squadron supports all units in the Kaiserslautern Military Community.

"We have a wide range of vehicles to help support just about anything," said Master Sgt. Brian Hoggard, 86th VRS vehicle operations supervisor. "It can range from driving a smaller sedan to a huge wrecker or bus."

One asset available here are shuttle buses driven by civilian and military members of the 86th VRS.

"Our people operate the base shuttle system to support all of Ramstein and help others get from point A to point B," said Hoggard. "We had more than 6,000 people utilizing our shuttle service last year."

The base shuttle runs from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. to allow members of Team Ramstein to get to appointments or across base during the day.

"I had to finish up in-processing and get a few things at the (The Exchange) and it was a bit of a walk to the dorms in the rain," said Airman 1st Class Katrina Alvarez, 721st Aerial Port Squadron. "I like to use the shuttle because it's a faster way to get around and it helps me get things done a lot quicker."

From sunny one day to snowing the next, the weather here can pose a challenge for the shuttle drivers on base.

"When the weather gets difficult, our drivers drive slower and watch out for other vehicles and people," said Tech. Sgt. Joshua Brown, 86th VRS chief dispatcher.

"The vehicles that we drive are a lot bigger, and they can't stop on a dime, so we have to be very observant with what is going on around us."

The shuttle drivers also transport aircrew to and from aircraft on the flightline and, occasionally, off base.

"We received new Euro-spec buses to conduct off-base missions," said Hoggard. "It's a lot easier to blend in now." With a variety of missions to support, the 86th VRS shuttle drivers provide Team Ramstein members from around the KMC the opportunity to get to the places they need to be in a timely manner to keep the mission going.

LEFT: Gerhard Ruegger, 86th Vehicle Readiness Squadron bus driver, drives the base shuttle Jan. 30 on Ramstein. The base shuttle runs from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. to allow Airmen and family members to get to appointments or across base during the day.

Sports Drinks & Tooth Decay

by Capt. Wah-Yung Tsang
86th Dental Squadron dentist

Have you ever wondered how beneficial sports drinks are? Sports drinks have high sugar content and acid levels that contribute to tooth decay. In the British Journal of Sports Medicine, Dr. Alex Milosevic of the University of Liverpool in England reported the case of a 23-year-old cross-country and marathon runner whose upper teeth had eroded from drinking sports drinks regularly for the past year. What does this mean for you — skip the sports drinks. As Kurt Butler said in A Consumers' Guide to Alternative Medicine, "they do efficiently replenish body fluids after a marathon or near-marathon. But they provide no competitive edge over those drinking less costly fluids." Water is still your best choice for fluid replacement.

Read labels carefully; know that one teaspoon of sugar is equal to about 4.2 grams in weight. If your bottle of sports drink says 44 grams of sugar, you would divide 44 by 4.2 which is equal to 10 teaspoons of sugar. The World Health Organization recommends limiting sugar intake to 45 grams (~11 teaspoons) a day or less. Getting more will slow absorption and may cause stomach cramps. Also, when drinking sports drinks, don't sip or swish. The longer they stay in your mouth, the more damage they can do to your teeth. So next time you reach for your favorite sports drink take a moment to remember the dental consequences.

Please stay tuned all month as we celebrate National Children's Dental Health Month with information you and your child should know about taking care of your teeth. For questions or concerns contact the 86th Dental Squadron at 479-2210 or 06371-46-2210.

Mentorship program pairs local Army unit with DOD schools

by Sgt. 1st Class Matthew Chlosta
7th CSC Public Affairs Office, 21st TSC

Chemicals, formulas and flames were the focus of 18 Soldiers from the 7th Civil Support Command's 773rd Civil Support Team and more than a dozen Kaiserslautern High School freshmen who met as part of the ongoing 21st Theater Sustainment Command's mentorship program, Jan. 28-29 and Jan. 31. The mentorship program began within the 21st TSC in 2010, and offers Soldiers an opportunity to share their life experiences with high school students. With the 773rd CST being the 7th CSC's chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear specialists, meeting with the chemistry students was a perfect mix.

"It was a great opportunity for us to get out in the local community and interact with the high school students and for them to ask us questions about how chemistry relates to our job in the military," said Sgt. Brandon Taylor, 773rd CST and Chicago native. "It was a good learning experience for them and now they know what they learn in chemistry class can help them achieve future career goals and opportunities."

The Soldiers and students worked on chemical equations during the first two days in the classroom. On the third day, they conducted a flame test that involved teams of two Soldiers and three students identifying elements (compounds) by their color using a blue flame in the KHS chemistry lab.

"It was fun working with the Soldiers, getting to know them," said Robert Brown, KHS freshman and Chicago native. "It was fun to try to teach them balanced equations. I want to teach math and science in the future."

"I think the experience was very fun and interesting," said Zarrian Fields, KHS freshman and Killeen, Texas, native. "I learned that different elements can turn and change into different colors when burned by propane."

This was an opportunity for the students to talk to the Soldiers about career opportunities in the CBRN field, said Cynthia Jackson, class instructor and Houston, Texas native, who has a doctorate in education. "It gives them an outlook of what the future can be." Jackson said her students often ask why do they need to learn how to balance equations and mix chemicals?

"Well, there's a job in the real world that relates to this," said Jackson. "We get to mentor each other." Lt. Col. Leslie Dillard, the 773rd CST commander and Huntsville, Ala., native, echoed the informational cross-exchange between the students and Soldiers. "This is the first time that the 773rd CST has been involved in the mentorship program," said Dillard. "Mentorship programs are important to the development of not only the students but also to the Soldiers. Sharing life's experiences with our future keeps them engaged."

The 773rd CST has planned a field trip to Rhine Ordnance Barrack in April when students will spend a day with the Soldiers to experience a day in the life of a CBRN and hazardous material technician. "It's nice to have people around me that know what they're doing," said Abbi Charpentier, KHS freshman and Houma, La., native. "We'd like them to come back.

Three Spouses to receive emergency medical technology certification course

The Air Force Aid Society in partnership with the Ramstein Airman & Family Readiness Center is providing a Spouse Employment Training Grant for three Air Force spouses to receive Emergency Medical Technology training and certification. The EMT program offers training in prehospital emergency care and provides the training needed for certification testing through the National Registry of EMTs. All necessary requirements will be addressed to uphold an EMT license. The Spouse Employment Training Grant program seeks to address the employment challenges Air Force spouses face each time they PCS. A career in medical technology can be a viable and portable option for those interested in the medical industry, providing greater opportunities for employment and professional growth.

To qualify:

• Need to be a spouse of an Air Force active duty/E-5 and below

• Have a DEROS of December 2013 or later

• Complete a 500 word essay on why and how you will us this certification in your future

• Memorandum of Agreement to complete the course and take exam if selected

The deadline for applications is March 1, 2013. For more information on how to apply for this grant, please contact Jamie Albers at the A&FRC at 480-5100 or 06371-47-5100.

German kamikaze pilots in World War II?

by Andy Rhude
U.S. Air Forces in Europe Warrior Preparation Center exercise planner

Editor's note: This is part two of a two-part story on Germany's kamikaze pilots.

As was discussed last week, Germany did recruit pilots for a kamikaze-like mission toward the end of World War II in the Sonderkommando Elbe Luftwaffe task force. The aircraft used was the ubiquitous Bf 109. It was a stripped down version with armor and all guns removed except one that was loaded with only 60 rounds of ammo. This allowed the aircraft to climb rapidly, get above the bomber formations and their fighter escorts, and attack with speed. The targeted part of the bomber (and the most survivable by the attacking pilot) was the delicate tail section, with the wing behind the engine nacelles and the cockpit the backup points of impact. The only mission flown by the Sonderkommando Elbe was on April 7, 1945. As a massive force of 1,300 American bombers and 800 escort fighters with the 8th AF headed toward central Germany, 180 ELBE Bf 109s launched to intercept them.

The most visible and famous encounter during this attack was that of Uffz Heinrich Rosner against the lead formation of 389th Bomb Group "Sky Scorpions" (with 31 B-24 Liberators, the most produced four-engine heavy bomber of World War II).

He managed to fly his 109 through the entire formation, slice through the cockpit of the lead B-24 "Palace of Dallas" and then careen into the deputy lead B-24, taking them both out (the 389th completed its mission successfully despite this loss). Amazingly, Rosner bailed out and survived with minor injuries. A total of 15 Allied bombers were attacked this way and eight were destroyed.

Luftwaffe records claim that at least 22 to 24 American bombers were victims of the Sonderkommando Elbe. An estimated 47 to 53 Elbe aircraft were shot down that day by escorting American fighters, with the death of 30 to 40 Elbe pilots. Sixty of the 180 Bf 109s launched that day returned with mechanical problems. The rammings were played down by American authorities and had little effect on the bombing campaign.

Prior to this effort, in 1944 there was a precedent set by the Luftwaffe to use ramming tactics against bombers. This Sturm-Jagdgruppe used heavily armed (30 mm cannons) and armored Fw 190s, nicknamed "Sturmbock," or battering ram. This tactic though was only used as a last resort if they were unable to destroy their targeted bomber with cannon fire. The tactic was effective, but the heavily laden fighters proved vulnerable to escorting American fighters.

Additionally, there was a unit more similar to the true Kamikaze. As Germany began losing the war, fanatical Nazi officers like Hanna Reitsch proposed attacks using suicide pilots. These proposed attacks, which had roots in German mythology, took advantage of the fanatical Nazi spirit and were glorified by Nazi propaganda. Hitler was reluctant but eventually agreed and the Leonidas Squadron was formed, formally known as 5th Staffel of Kampfgeschwander 200.

This unit was formed to fly a manned version of the V-1 flying bomb, the Fieseler Fi 103R (Reichenberg), and more than 70 volunteers, mostly young pilot recruits, began training to fly. Although likely to be killed, the pilot was still expected to attempt to bail out at the last second and survive.

The position of the cockpit directly in front of the intake of the pulsejet engine made this a dubious proposition. The KG 200 commander and his superiors thought this tactic a waste of life and resources so the Reichenberg was never used in combat. They instead used a Mistel (German for mistletoe) guided bomb, where a converted Ju 88 bomber airframe with explosive-laden nose was remotely guided to its target from a fighter that was joined to its top prior to release. These proved generally ineffective though.

Finally, from April 17 to 20 during the Battle for Berlin, it is reported that as a last ditch effort, pilots from the 5th Staffel used any aircraft that were available to destroy bridges with suicide attacks to thwart the advancing Soviets. Their effectiveness is debated by historians and generally considered a high price to pay for a temporary delay to the Soviets.

Fasching parade routes through Ramstein Tuesday

Towns offer special outdoor events, continue celebrations

by Petra Lessoing
86th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

Fasching, Germany's "crazy season" will continue through Tuesday with masquerade balls, dances, children's parties, funny sessions and colorful parades. Ramstein-Miesenbach's carnival association Bruchkatze will sponsor its parade on Fat Tuesday, whereas most other towns will have theirs as a highlight on Rose Monday.

The most famous Fasching parades are those in the main Fasching cities of Mainz, Köln and Düsseldorf. Spectators from Germany and throughout Europe come to these cities to watch the annual spectacle with decorated floats, bands, dancing and marching groups. Participants in vehicles throw candy or hand out drinks to the crowds along the streets. It is traditional for revelers to sing, sway and dance during the five-hour parades which all start at 11:11 a.m.

The official Fasching greeting in Köln is "Alaaf," and in Mainz and Düsseldorf, it's "Helau."

In Ramstein-Miesenbach, Fasching participants shout "Ralau." The almost 2-hour long parade will start 2 p.m. Tuesday. It will lead from Bahnhofstrasse to Landstuhler Strasse, on to Jahn-, Siedlungs-, Lilien-, Spesbacher- and Miesenbacherstrasse back to Bahnhofstrasse and then August-Suessdorfstrasse, where it will end.

"More than 1,600 persons from 39 clubs registered to participate," said Hartmut Schäffner, chief of the parade committee. "We also have about 460 Americans from 15 groups who like to join our traditional event."

As in recent years, the U. S. Air Forces in Europe marching band will perform in the streets. Other groups will be the Ramstein Girls Scouts with 12 troops, the Ramstein High School Step Team with 12 people, the Sembach Girl Scouts with about 200 girls and adults, and the Roller Girls of the Apocalypse with 25 participants.

Twenty-seven decorated floats and 80 walking groups will present different themes such as "Star Wars", "Indians" and "Beneath the Sea."

Traditionally, the U.S. Air Forces in Europe Band entertains the audience in the Ramstein Fasching parade.

More than 48,000 promotion items to include candies will be tossed to 30,000 to 50,000 spectators. Food and beverage booths will be placed throughout the 2.4 kilometer route. Residents along the route are asked to decorate their houses to support the celebration.

"We kindly ask parents to watch their kids, and for safety reasons, spectators shouldn't get too close to the floats," said Schäffner.

There will be vendors again selling parade buttons for €2 to spectators," Schäffner added. "This helps to finance the event."

Regional carnival associations send their youth groups to participate in Ramstein-Miesenbach's parade, which starts 2 p.m. Tuesday.

After the parade, the party continues at the Haus des Bürgers. Spectators will have free admission to the Fasching party with their buttons.

"Polizei, the volunteer fire brigade, German Red Cross, office of public order and military police support us each year and help to make the event a success," said Schäffner.

A Fasching carnival with a merry-go-round and activity booths will be set up from Sunday through Tuesday on Marktplatz. The center of Ramstein-Miesenbach is closed Tuesday to motorized vehicles from noon to 8 p.m.

"Fasching Princess Nadine I. and all Bruchkatze members are happy to welcome spectators from all over to join the fun," said Schäffner.

Other parades in the Pfalz are held Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in Linden, and at 2 p.m. in Trippstadt, Dahn and Rodalben.

Many towns offer outdoor Fasching events on Shrove Tuesday.

In Kaiserslautern, a Fasching party with performances and disc jockeys will start 11:11 a.m. Rose Monday between Schillerplatz and Stiftskirche. On Shrove Tuesday, a stage will be set up near the Rathaus (city hall). The local Fasching association, KVK, will present its Fasching princess, dancing groups and other members. The official shout in Kaiserslautern is "Kalau."

A Fasching carnival with rides, a Ferris wheel, food and candy booths will take place Saturday through Tuesday around Stiftskirche.

In most German states, children don't have school Shrove Tuesday. And usually, people who work take off in the early afternoon. In most cases, employers allow them to do so, and stores, banks and official institutions close at 1 or 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Ash Wednesday will end the crazy season. Carnival association members and party-goers meet one more time for their traditional "Heringsessen," the eating of herring. The herring is supposed to help ease hangovers. Also on Ash Wednesday, Lent, a 40-day fasting period for Roman Catholics starts.

English calendar of events 2013 now available

The 2013 issue of the English calendar of events for the Ramstein and Kaiserslautern area is now available at the "Window to Rheinland-Pfalz" information counter at the KMCC, the German-American Community Office in Kaiserslautern and the tourist information centers in the city and county of Kaiserslautern.

The calendar provides a monthly overview of city and village festivals, fairs, markets, concerts, shows and other events in the Ramstein and Kaiserslautern area including a short description of the respective event. It depicts a choice of offers that the local tourism representatives consider particularly interesting for English speaking visitors.

The English calendar was first published in 2011 and the contents keep growing year by year. The 2013 issue lists 160 events from early January until end of December.

For the first time it includes information about happenings in the close-by holiday region Lake Ohmbach/ Glan Valley, e.g. the popular Lake Festival in July, and the Donnersberg region with the medieval market at Falkenstein castle in August. The booklet that is distributed free of charge provides dates and details about the Ramstein Carnival Parade, the Sickingen May Market in Landstuhl, the horse show and show jumping in Miesau as well as the Kaiserslautern Altstadtfest or the bike day "Carfree Lauter Valley" and various other events in the local area.

People interested in cultural events and friends of classical music will find something to awaken their interest as well as sports enthusiasts or families with children.

Please check the website www.ramstein-gateway.com to find online information about local events and festivals. The "Window to Rheinland-Pfalz – Ramstein Gateway" information center located in the KMCC will be happy to assist you with information about the region. Just stop by at the counter during your next visit at the KMCC.

Thursday, lovers observe Valentine's Day

by Petra Lessoing
86th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

Red hearts in department stores, flower shops, candy stores, bakeries and window displays signal Valentine's Day is just around the corner. Thursday is the day for lovers and a day of friendship.

Customarily, husbands and wives, girlfriends and boyfriends have romantic dinners, give gifts, candy, cards and flowers on Valentine's Day.

The custom of giving flowers goes back to ancient Rome, where a friendly priest called Valentine gave advice to young people, in particular regarding marriage. He did this despite Emperor Claudius' prohibition. Claudius did not want his legionaries get — according to Christian customs — tied to wives and houses. But Valentine was looking for lovers, found them and married them. He passed out flowers to young couples who were walking by the garden of his monastery and asked the men to rather stay at home than going into the battle.

One day Emperor Claudius wanted to meet Valentine to find out about his wisdom. A council member asked Valentine what he thought of the Roman gods. Valentine answered that they are demons. The council immediately requested the blasphemer's death.

During a delay Valentine asked for, he impressed the emperor with the truth of Christian belief. Claudius was deeply touched, but when Rome's governor said Valentine was a magician, Claudius feared a revolt by his people and passed the priest on to Asterius, a judge, to decide on his fate. While standing in front of the judge, Valentine performed a miracle.

He made the judge's blind daughter see again by praying and laying on of hands. Asterius and his family got baptized after that. But since their new Christian belief was counter to Roman religion, they were tortured and killed. Rome's governor also decided to torture Valentine and behead him Feb. 14, 269. Before he was killed, many young people visited him in jail. Also, one jail guard's daughter came to see him several times. She helped him to keep his spirits up and told him that he did the right thing by ignoring the emperor and going ahead with the secret messages.

On the day he was to die, he left a note thanking the girl for her friendship and loyalty. He signed it with "Love from your Valentine." That might have started the custom of exchanging love messages Feb. 14.

In the 18th century, people in love started to send romantic greeting cards. In Germany, recognition of Valentine's Day started in the 1950's when American Soldiers brought the British tradition to Germany. The Greeting Card Association estimates that world-wide one billion Valentine's Day cards are sent each year, making it the second largest card-sending day behind Christmas.

Since Valentine's martyr death, Feb. 14 is observed as the day of love. In former times, the night before Feb. 14, women tied laurel leaves to the four tips of their pillows. This was supposed to be a guarantee for dreaming of their true love.

People also believed that a woman would marry the man she would see first in front of her house on Valentine's Day. This was enough reason for a young man to be out early in the morning, and to reassure the feeling of his beloved one with a bouquet of flowers.

Bat Boy sighting in Baumholder

by Cheryl Navo
Theater Volunteer

In 1992, a Weekly World News tabloid story reported that a half-boy, half-bat was found living in a cave. More recently, multiple Bat Boy sightings have been reported in the Baumholder Military Community.

The Hilltop Theater is preparing for its production of Bat Boy: The Musical. The cast and crew from both Baumholder and Kaiserslautern military communities are rehearsing long hours in preparation for opening night. "Bat Boy: The Musical" is a wacky Appalachian Gothic comic tragedy packed with hilarious song and dance numbers," says Director, Eric Danzeiser.

"Issues of hatred, revenge, hypocrisy, and racism are dealt with in a wickedly hilarious way, and the overall message is one of acceptance and forgiveness."

The story: teenage spelunkers discover a feral Bat Boy living in a cave. During the capture, Bat Boy attacks one of the teenagers and is handed over to the town veterinarian to be put down. Bat Boy's life is spared and he tries to gain acceptance with the town people, only to face hatred and violence, and the secret of Bat Boy's history is revealed during a climactic moment. The humor is dark, the songs are dripping with sarcasm and wit, and the thread of social commentary running through Bat Boy will make you think long after the final notes fade away.

Dominic Sparks takes 'Bat Boy' from a hissing caged animal to a charming, well-educated young man. The Parker family is the central focus of the story as Tim Ekola embodies conflicted insanity as veterinarian Thomas Parker.

Cheryl Navo is the maternal Meredith, and Juliana Knaup plays flouncy but sincere daughter Shelley. A talented ensemble includes Tom Navo, Nicholas Perez, Christopher Craven, Sarah Holliday, Kristen Holliday, Shelby Gibbins, Stacy Meltz, Chris Senkbeil, Rachel Holliday, Kara Craven, and Melanie Robinson playing a multitude of roles, from townsfolk to teens to religious revivalists.

Bat Boy: The Musical, by Keythe Farley and Brian Flemming with music and lyrics by Laurence O'Keefe premiered in 1997 and has since been produced off-Broadway, in London's West End, and scores of venues throughout the world. The Baumholder Hilltop Theater's performance is through special arrangement with Dramatist's Play Service, Inc.

Bat Boy: The Musical opens at the Baumholder Hilltop Theater the weekend of Feb. 15 and 16 and continues through the following two weekends, Feb. 22 and 23 and March 1 and 2, with six total performances. Parental guidance is suggested due to adult themes. The Hilltop Theater is located beside Burger King on Smith Barracks. Show tickets are $8 for adults, $5 for students, and there is a family rate of $25 for families of four or more. Tickets may also be obtained by calling 485-7244 or through the FB page "The Hilltop Theater."

5 Tips for Healthy Hearts through Healthy Eating

February is Heart Month, and one of the best ways to take care of your heart is to eat a healthy, well-balanced diet. Use the following five tips to make sure you're eating for heart health:

Eat a wide variety of fruits and vegetables: At least five servings of fruits and vegetables per day are recommended for most people. Fruits and vegetables are generally high in vitamins, minerals, and fiber and low in fat and calories. Try adding fresh fruit and vegetables as snacks. Keep washed and cut vegetables easily accessible in your refrigerator. Baby carrots, mandarin oranges, apples, and cut up bell peppers make easy and healthy snacks on the go. Incorporate chopped vegetables into store-bought pasta sauce or in meatloaf.

1. Include healthy fats from fish and vegetable sources: Monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fats are less damaging to your heart and blood vessels, and may actually have some heart protecting effects.

Vegetable and fish oils are good sources of these "essential" fatty acids. These are fats that our bodies require and we must get from food sources. Research indicates that consumption of Omega-3 fatty acids may decrease the risk of arrhythmias (irregular heartbeat) and may help slow the progression of atherosclerosis, or the hardening plaque in arteries that increases risk for heart attack and stroke.

The American Heart Association recommends that individuals get at least two (3.5 ounce) servings of fish, such as salmon, mackerel, and sardines, per week.

Vegetable sources of Omega-3's include walnuts, flaxseed, vegetable oils such as canola and olive, and soy products such as tofu.

2. Make at least half of your grains whole (and more if you can). Whole grains naturally contain B vitamins, minerals and are a great source of fiber. Fiber is important for heart health in several ways.

Soluble fiber (found in oat bran, oatmeal, whole grain rice, and the pulp of fruits and vegetables) can reduce LDL cholesterol more than a low fat and low saturated fat diet alone. Insoluble fiber (found in whole wheat cereals and breads, whole grain rice, most other whole grains and vegetables) is associated with decreased cardiovascular disease risk and slowed progression of heart disease in those at high risk.

Consumption of whole grains rather than refined grains is also associated with more successful weight loss in those individuals who are trying to achieve a healthy body weight. Refined grains and products high in added sugar are not as satiating and don't provide the same nutrients as whole grain products.

3. Monitor sodium, fat and added sugar intake. Individuals with high blood pressure (hypertension) may be sensitive to sodium. Fat consumption, in particular saturated and "trans fat" consumption, are associated with increased LDL cholesterol and increased risk for heart attack and stroke.

Saturated fat is found in high fat animal products such as full fat dairy, chicken with the skin, and the marbling in steaks. "Trans" fat is generally found in fast foods and shelf-stable baked products like cookies and muffins.

Look for items that are trans fat free and do not have "hydrogenate or partially hydrogenated oil" in the ingredients. Limit the amounts of saturated fat in your diet to less than 15 grams per day.

4. It is also important to limit the amounts of added sugar and refined carbohydrates in your diet. If you routinely consume sugar-sweetened beverages such as soda, sweetened tea, juice or sweetened coffee beverages, this is a good place to start.

If you cut just one 12 ounce can of soda from your diet, this can result in a weight loss of over 15 pounds in one year. What a relief for your heart. Refined carbohydrate consumption can also increase the triglycerides, or fat, in your blood, which is associated with increased risk for heart disease.

5. Maintain a healthy body weight: Being overweight or obese is associated with a significant increase in heart disease risk. Talk with your doctor about your BMI (Body Mass Index) and whether it puts you at increased risk for heart disease.

Even more important than your BMI is your body composition which is the amount of fat and muscle in your body. Extra weight carried as fat in your body is harmful for your health, whereas muscle is not.

Exercise is one of the best ways to manage your weight and improve your body composition.

Make sure that you get at least 30 minutes of physical activity per day. Try to include both aerobic (such as walking, running and swimming) and strength training (such as weight lifting or pushups and squats) for the most benefit.

If you would like more information about how to eat for heart health, please visit the American Heart Association at heart.org or learn about healthful eating at choosemyplate.gov.

If you have high blood pressure or high cholesterol and would like more information on nutrition, ask your doctor for a referral to Nutrition Care or call 486-7144 or 06371-86-7144 to enroll in our Heart Health Nutrition Class.

AF chief of staff releases 2013 reading list

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The Air Force chief of staff published his professional reading list Feb. 1.

In a message on the website, Gen. Mark A. Welsh III said, "We are the world's greatest air force because of our Airmen...and we must continue to strengthen that team."

He asks Airmen to take a look at the list that highlights the Air Force's heritage and fighting spirit, and encourages innovation and forward thinking.

This year's list contains 14 books, seven films, seven TED talks, web-based resources, and for the first time, artwork, music and photography selections.

The books in this year's reading list are:

"Hat in the Ring: The Birth of American Air Power in the Great War" by Bert Frandsen

"West with the Night" by Beryl Markham

"The Dead Hand: The Untold Story of the Cold War Arms Race and Its Dangerous Legacy" by David Hoffman

"Flying Tigers: Claire Chennault and His American Volunteers, 1941-1942" by Daniel Ford

"Leading With Honor" by Lee Ellis

"Dressmaker of Khair Khana" by Gayle Lemmon

"The Sovereignty Solution" by Anna Simons, Joe McGraw, and Duane Lauchengco

"I Always Wanted to Fly: America's Cold War Airmen" by Col. Wolfgang Samuel

"Realizing Tomorrow: The Path to Private Spaceflight" by Chris Dubbs and Emeline Paat-Dahlstrom

"Counterstrike: The Untold Story of America's Secret Campaign Against Al Qaeda" by Eric Schmitt and Thom Shanker

"China Airborne" by James Fallows

"Outliers" by Malcolm Gladwell

"No One's World: The West, the Rising Rest, and the Coming Global Turn" by Charles Kupchan

"Need, Speed, and Greed" by Vijay Vaitheeswaran

More information on the 2013 reading list can be found at: http://www.af.mil/specials/csafreadinglist/index.html

Hotel Transylvania — A group of classic monsters including Frankenstein, the Mummy, Dracula and the Werewolf who are hiding out in a hotel on the outskirts of Transylvania now that 21st century technology has seemingly made them irrelevant. Simon Van Helsing, the youngest in a long line of monster hunters. The last thing Van Helsing wants to do is fall in love with Dracula's Daughter, Mavis.

Stand Up Guys — Al Pacino, Christopher Walken and Alan Arkin in a tough but touching action comedy as retired gangsters who reunite for one epic last night. VAL (Al Pacino) is released from prison after serving twenty-eight years for refusing to give up one of his close criminal associates. His best friend DOC (Christopher Walken) is there to pick him up, and the two soon reteam with another old pal, HIRSCH (Alan Arkin). Their bond is as strong as ever, and the three reflect on freedom lost and gained, loyalties ebbed and flowed, and days of glory gone by.

The Victor's Residenz-Hotels in Saarland - the choice is yours …

Victor's Residenz-Hotel Schloss Berg, Perl-Nennig

Victor's RESIDENZ-HOTELS

Victor's Seehotel Weingärtner, Nohfelden-Bosen at the Bostal lake

There are five Victor's Residenz-Hotels in Saarland - don't wait for your next vacation - indulge in something special right now: on your own, as a couple or as a group, amidst vineyards or at the lake, wether you are here to hike, sightsee or to shop, to be totally relaxed or absolutely active - discover the beautiful side of life. Discover Victor's World!

Victor's Residenz-Hotel Schloss Berg enthralls its guests with the highest level of comfort and a unique location amidst vineyards in the tri-border region of Germany, Luxembourg and France. 106 rooms and suites are available for guests to choose from ranging from Mediterranean elegance in the Villa to the noble style of the classical age in the Renaissance Schloss. The 5 Star superior Hotel boasts three restaurants, including 3 star chef Christian Bau's cuisine, Mediterranean cuisine at the Restaurant Bacchus as well as regional specialties at the country inn Die Scheune; an exclusive wellness area including pool, jacuzzi, steam and other saunas and a fitness suite; the Beauty-Farm; plus a multitude of leisure possibilities year-round. Amongst those are Mosel and Saar river cruises, bicycle excursions, golf and tennis as well as wine tastings at regional vineyards and shopping trips to Luxembourg or France.

The Victor's Seehotel Weingärtner, located on lake Bostal in the north of Saarland, is a cozy 4 star hotel steeped in tradition offering 99 rooms, all decorated in country style. The Weingärtner's Restaurant is known for its extraordinary cuisine well across the county borders. The restaurant caters for every liking - here you will find local specialties from Saarland, Mediterranean specialties, fantastic game and even Oriental delicacies – here, you are spoilt for choice.

The indoor pool with jacuzzi, sauna and steam sauna provide relaxation and peace for even the most stressed-out visitor.
The recently added Victor's Romantic Spa complements the offer in respect of wellness and beauty. Treatments range from simple make-up to cosmetic treatments, professional skin care to relaxing whole body massages.
The leisure possibilities are extensive and include sailing, surfing and paddle boating on lake Bostalsee, hiking and bike trails the surrounding area, tennis courts next to the hotel, boules and table tennis facilities and the next golf course is only 14 km away …
And best of all: both Victor's destinations are easily reached in about 60 minutes from your location by auto.

2013 CFC-O COIN DESIGN CONTEST

WHO: All DoD employees and their family members (ID card required for verification).

WHAT: Participants will create a 2013 CFC-O coin design that embodies the spirit of the campaign. The chosen design will be distributed to select contributors during the 2013 CFC-O this fall.

WHEN: Submissions are due by 29 March 2013.

DETAILS
- Designs should depict the theme: "Serve to Honor Your Country. Give Because You Care." but the theme does not need to appear in text on the design.
- The year "2013" and the name "Combined Federal Campaign-Overseas" must appear in the design.
- The design must fit on a round coin 1 ¾" diameter.
- Use the following colors: red, white and blue as solid colors only, no gradients as they cannot be replicated accurately with enamel fill. Any negative space without a color will be background color of the coin.
- Submit designs as a .jpg or .pdf file to cfco@cfcoverseas.org.

2012 COIN DESIGN

SUBMIT YOUR DESIGN TODAY!

By submitting a design, the artist verifies that their design is original work and gives permission for its use by the CFC-O on the coins. Additionally, the submitter consents to the reproduction of the design and its use by the CFC-O in various applications, which include, but are not limited to: campaign materials, publicity releases and electronic reproduction on the CFC-O website and social media sites. There will be no monetary remuneration for use of the winning design.

CHILD CARE

All ads & pics can be viewed @ www.class-world.eu

Advertisers living on base/post and offering child care services are on the approved list of Family Child Care (FCC) providers. Those living off base/post offering these services in the newspaper are not screened by FCC. Use good judgement when choosing off base/post child care services. Qualifications should be checked and references requested before placing any child in the custody of child care providers who have not been screened.*Anyone providing more than 10 hours of care per week, on a regular basis, MUST be licensed by the FCC office. If you do not have a license and provide care, you could possibly lose your base housing privileges.**
